Christine's aim is very simple – to capture places, people and moments in time and make them as beautiful and interesting as possible. Some of her images are “competition” pictures, others an expression of her enjoyment of a day, an area or a subject. She loves to capture her beautiful local area of Saddleworth, especially its hills and waterways and, in recent years, has added local wildlife photography to her portfolio. In her creative work, for which she is best known, Christine tries to go beyond the objective recording of fact and to use self-expression to provide an interpretation of her subjects, by blending images from different times and places

Christine enjoys lecturing, judging and exhibiting her work and added authorship to her achievements with the publication of two books, one on the landscape of Saddleworth and the other on the history of the Victorian photographers of Oldham.
